

THE BATTLES OF 6TH GRADE: BY COLLIN SMITH

O great and powerful god, please help me to tell this poem of Adam's battles through 6th grade.

Weeks we spent building missiles that will fire through the air oh so swiftly.

We launched them into the atmosphere with ammo attached.

They began shooting each other out of the sky.

Adam's was the sole survivor, and his honor was great.

Adam fought many other battles through the year.

For many years, Adam had been the champion of the creature called "the Wolf."

Some loath the wolf, but others admire him - so they fight.

Many have retreated from the battle, but victory for Adam is surely inevitable.

Tasked with creating a country, Adam established Cattan, with mountains, secret passages, and an extremely strong army.

Cattan fought a series of bloody battles against two other powerful enemies, emerging victorious.

Finally, Adam fought for control of Ancient China.

His armies stayed in the north, while others foolishly battled over the country.

After many were defeated, the two victors targeted Adam in the north.

He was defeated and fled to join the Hun in the desert.

Together, Adam and his Hun allies triumphed and became emperors of China and led it to glory.

Victorious in all the battles of 6th grade, Adam went off to face new challenges at his next school.
